WILL HONOR SHAW AT DINNER PARTY ON 70TH BIRTHDAY

Government Refuses to Allow Broadcasting Of Speech

WRITER DECLINES TO CURB REMARKS

Firebrand of English Literature Looks Like Santa Claus Though Genius Blazes

Press.)-George Bernard Shaw, who will be 70 tomorrow—and is as shaviar as ever—will be the honored guest at a dinner in the House of Commons. It was proposed that Shaw's birth day speech be broadcast, but the British Broadcasting Company, which s something of a government monop oly, undertook to extract a pledge from him not to make controversia utterances. He declined any such pledge'so the speech will not be broad east, but the public is awaiting, with even more interest than otherwise, what G. B. S., will say. One, phase of his career is never dull, that of joshing the English in particular and the world in general-making then like it and pay him handsomely for his banter and repartee.

The newspapers are filled with columns of adulation and critical analysis of Shaw's remarkable per-sonality and genius, with many trib utes from abroad, especially American and continental.

German and Dutch journals have issued special Shaw numbers, while a bulky, handsomely bound volume delivered at the famous Shaw flat in Adelphi Terrace, contained greetings of one hundred eminent German statesmen, authors, musicians, actors and critics, included Ev. Stresemann, the foreign minister; Professor Einstein, of relativity fame, and Rich-

Appearance Changed

Although the fire of his Celtie gen-ius still blazes with all the vividness of youth, as proved by the general acceptance of his most recent play— "Saint Joan"—as his best, there is a great change in the personal appear ance of the man who will sit at the festive board, presided over by former Premier Ramsey MacDonald, with inellectuals, distinguished governmen officials and famous literary lights ranged along the table.

The flood of years has mellowed the stormy, scornful young Irish iconoclast of the eighties and nineties, with his bristling red beard waving defiantly like a red flag, into a benign elderly gentleman, whose white whiskers and benevolent mien vould get him a job as Santa Claus i state university.

40 years ago, The dinner in his honor will be one postprandial brilliance. One of G. S's, accomplishments is that he is as remarkable an after-dinner speaker s he is a dramatist and satirist. Almost unbelievable financial offers have been made by American lecture managers to induce him to tour the United States, but without success, largely because, he said the enormous sums offered indicate that if the
